all about Canadian pork

choose Canadian

When you're looking for flavour, tenderness, versatility and healthy eating, Canadian pork is the perfect choice. Pork produced in Canada is top quality, safe and delicious. Its mild taste is well-suited to diverse flavour combinations – spicy, hot, tangy, or sweet – and is the basis for many ethnic favourites. A wide variety of pork cuts, both bone-in and boneless, suit all cooking styles and make meal planning and preparations easy.

Pork is a healthy choice

Lean Canadian pork is nutrient-dense, satisfying and good for you. It contains high-quality protein and 12 essential vitamins and minerals. Pork is also naturally low in sodium and trans-fat free. The fats present are mostly poly- and mono-unsaturated, making pork suitable for cholesterol-lowering and heart-healthy diets. Also, 10 common cuts of fresh pork, when trimmed of visible fat, contain six grams of fat or less per 100 g (3 oz) serving. Canada's Food Guide recommends eating one to three 75 g (2 ½ oz) servings of Meat & Alternatives, like lean pork, each day. So choose Canadian pork! It's the perfect complement to a healthy eating plan.

Look for the sticker

Fresh Canadian pork is available just about everywhere – from the meat counter at your favourite grocery store or butcher shop to farmers' markets and on-farm sales. Look for the "Canadian Pork" sticker on pork products at participating stores. If the fresh pork isn't labeled, be sure to ask where it comes from. Insisting on "choosing Canadian" helps support the Canadian economy and local agriculture.

pork nutrition

Pork contains many of the nutrients recommended by Health Canada to build and maintain a healthy body.

You get all these nutrients from pork

Did you know

- All pork cuts, with the exception of ribs, qualify as “lean” or “extra lean” and fit well into a healthy eating plan.
- Fresh pork cuts are naturally tender and low in sodium.
- Fresh pork contains no trans-fat or hydrogenated fat. The fat in pork is mostly in the form of poly- and mono-unsaturated.
- Pork is the leading food source of thiamin, an essential B vitamin.
- Canadian pork is 44% leaner than in the 1970s, due to improved breeding and feeding practices.
- Pork is classified as a “red” meat because it contains more myoglobin (an oxygen holding protein) than chicken or fish.
- A serving of lean, trimmed, cooked pork is about the size of a deck of cards or the palm of your hand.

characteristics of pork cuts

You can prepare perfect pork every time by knowing the characteristics of each cut. A side of pork is made up of four main wholesale areas, called PRIMALS. They are the loin, the leg, the shoulder and the belly. Each area has its own characteristics.

Loin is the most tender and lean and yields the premium-priced pork cuts. It is divided in three sections – the rib (closest to the shoulder), the centre and the sirloin. Cuts from the loin are roasts, chops, cutlets, tenderloin, back ribs, country-style ribs, cubes and strips. The roasts and chops may be bone-in or boneless. Loin cuts are usually cooked by dry heat* cooking methods.

Pork loins can be purchased whole, providing cost savings for buying bulk, and can be cut into smaller pieces (e.g. roasts, chops, strips, cubes) and frozen for future use.

Leg is very lean and more economical than the loin. The leg may be sold as a whole roast, or a half, or it may be sectioned into three muscle cuts – the inside, outside and leg tip. Leg cuts may be bone-in or boneless. Hams are cured and smoked legs of pork. Leg cuts can be cooked by dry heat*, but are best suited to moist heat* cooking methods.

Shoulder is the most economical retail cut. It is divided into two sections – the picnic and the blade. The cuts may be either bone-in or boneless and may be made into roasts, chops, steaks, cubes or ground pork. Moist heat* produces excellent results but dry heat* cooking can be used as well.

Belly provides side ribs, bacon and other processed pork products.

purchasing pork

Pork's versatility makes it the perfect choice for everyday meals, casual entertaining and elegant dinners. When purchasing Canadian pork consider the following:

- 1 The degree of leanness – Modern-day production has reduced pork's fat content, making it a major contender in the lean meat category. For the leanest cuts of pork, look for the word "loin" on the label.
- 2 What part of the pig is this cut from? – This is known as the "primal" or "wholesale" cut and specifies which part of the carcass the meat comes from. This information is a good indicator of the relative tenderness of the cut and can help consumers decide which cooking method to use when preparing the cut. This part of the label may read pork shoulder, loin, leg, etc.
- 3 How much time do you have? – If time is limited, you'll want to select a smaller cut, like pork chops that cook quickly. If you're entertaining and have several other dishes to prepare, you may want to choose a roast that can be put in the oven and requires very little attention.
- 4 Number of people to be served – The average serving size for pork is 100 g (3 oz) of cooked meat. Start with 150 g (4 oz) of boneless, raw pork to yield an average serving size of cooked pork. A 100 g (3 oz) serving is about the size of a deck of cards or the palm of your hand.
- 5 Cost – To get the most for your money, take time to figure out the cost per serving. Some boneless cuts may seem more expensive, but are actually a better buy because you're not paying for the bone. Calculating cost per serving is a better measure of value and can be calculated with this formula:

$$\text{Cost per serving} = \frac{\text{Cost per pound or kilogram}}{\# \text{ of servings per pound or kilogram}}$$

How much to buy

The amount of pork to buy will depend on the number of servings required and whether the meat is boneless or bone-in. A rule of thumb is to allow 1/4–1/3 lb (125–165 g) per person for boneless cuts, 1/3–1/2 lb (165 - 250 g) for bone-in cuts.

Cut	Servings/lb	Servings/kg
Boneless Roasts	3–4	7–8
Bone-in Roasts	2–3	5–6
Boneless Steaks, Chops, Cubes, Strips	3–4	7–8
Blade Steaks and Bone-in Chops	2–3	5–6
Ground Pork or Sausage	3–4	7–8
Side or Back Ribs	allow 1/2 to 1 rack per person
Crown Roast	1–2 ribs/person

handling pork

Storage times

FRESH

	(4°C/40°F) Refrigerator	(-18°C/0°F) Freezer
Roasts, Steaks, Chops	2–4 days	8–10 months
Ground Pork	1–2 days	1–3 months
Leftover cooked pork*	2–3 days	2–3 months
Variety meat	1–2 days	3–4 months

Note: Some newer types of fresh meat packaging allow for longer storage times in the refrigerator and bear a “Best Before” date. Once these vacuum packages are opened, the meat should be used promptly (ground pork within 1 day, other cuts within 2–3 days).

PROCESSED

	(4°C/40°F) Refrigerator	(-18°C/0°F) Freezer
Smoked Sausage	3–7 days	1–2 months
Ham	3–4 days	not recommended
Bacon	7 days	1 month
Cold Cuts	3–5 days	not recommended

*Cool to room temperature, uncovered. Then cover tightly and refrigerate or place in freezer within two hours after cooking.

If vacuum packed, check manufacturer’s “Best Before” date.

Freezing

- Use moisture-proof, airtight packaging, sealable freezer bags, heavy duty foil or freezer wrap to protect the meat from losing moisture during storage.
- Remove as much air as possible before sealing to prevent “freezer burn.”
- Freeze chops and steaks in meal-size packages.
- A double layer of waxed paper between pieces makes it easier to separate later.
- Freeze ground pork in patties or in 1/2 lb/250 g or 1 lb/500 g packages.
- Label packages with the date, pork cut, weight and number of servings.
- Use pork within the recommended time for best flavour and texture.

food safety

Canada's food supply is one of the safest in the world. However, food safety doesn't just happen. Many people play a vital role in keeping our food safe, including farmers, growers, processors, grocers and consumers. Follow the 4 steps – Clean, Separate, Chill, Cook – to eliminate harmful bacteria and greatly reduce the risk of foodborne illness. And remember, "When in doubt, throw it out!"

Four steps for food handling

Reduce the risk of foodborne illness by following these 4 IMPORTANT STEPS:

1. CLEAN

– wash your hands and kitchen surfaces often

2. SEPARATE

– keep raw meat/poultry/seafood and their juices separate from other foods. Don't cross-contaminate

3. CHILL

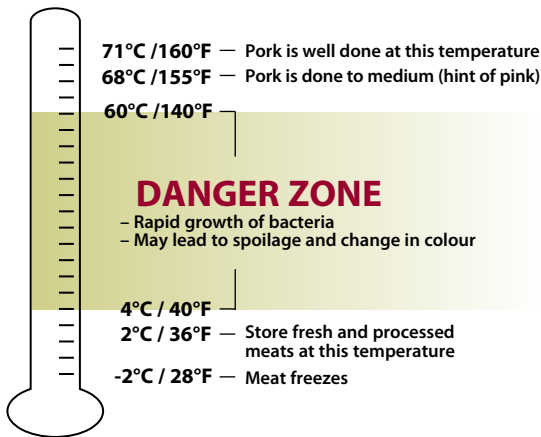

– refrigerate or freeze foods promptly

4. COOK

– always cook to proper temperatures

Food safety temperature guide

Keep pork below 40°F (4°C) or above 140°F (60°C)!

2-hour rule

Refrigerate or freeze perishables, prepared food and leftovers, within two hours. Discard food left at room temperature longer than two hours. This includes food in the car, at picnics and food left on the counter.

cooking guide

There are two different methods for cooking pork – dry heat and moist heat.

COOKING TIP: To retain pork's juiciness, always use tongs rather than a fork for turning.

DRY heat

– to cook uncovered without the addition of liquid.

This method is most suitable for loin cuts, although some leg and shoulder cuts can also be prepared using dry heat. Dry heat methods include:

ROASTING – to cook in the oven, in an uncovered pan, surrounded by dry heat

HOW TO DO IT:

- Preheat oven to recommended roasting temperature
- Roast larger cuts of pork (over 2 lb/1 kg) at 325°F (160°C)
- Roast smaller cuts of pork (under 2 lb/1 kg) at 350°F (180°C)
- Do not cover
- Do not add liquid
- Roast to an internal temperature of 155–160°F (68–71°C)
- Remove from oven, tent loosely with foil and let rest 5–10 minutes before slicing. This allows the meat to reabsorb juices.

Note: Roast pork tenderloin at 375°F (190°C) for 30–35 minutes total time or to an internal temperature of 155°F (68°). Tent with foil; let rest 5 minutes.

CUTS FOR ROASTING – Loin Roasts, Crown Roasts, Racks of Pork, Pork Tenderloin

BROILING – to cook directly under intense, dry heat

HOW TO DO IT:

- Cook 3–5" (8–12 cm) from heat source
- Cook using high heat until meat surface is golden brown and slightly "springy" to the touch

CUTS FOR BROILING – Chops, Steaks, Kabobs, Satays, Ribs

PAN-FRYING/SAUTÉING – to cook quickly in a small amount of oil over direct heat in an open pan or skillet

HOW TO DO IT:

- Use a medium-high temperature
- Cook to medium. Ground pork and sausages should be cooked to well done.

CUTS FOR PAN-FRYING – Chops/Steaks, Burgers, Cutlets/Schnitzel, Scaloppini, Tenderloin Medallions, Cubes, Sausage

STIR-FRYING – to cook small pieces of meat quickly in a small amount of oil over high heat, stirring and tossing constantly

CUTS FOR STIR-FRYING – Strips, Cubes, Ground Pork

GRILLING – to cook directly over intense heat

HOW TO DO IT:

- Preheat barbecue on high
- Reduce heat to medium or low temperature to cook

Steaks/Chops

Grill over medium heat; turn once.

Roasts

Preheat barbecue. Turn off heat on one side and reduce heat on other side. Place roast on the “off heat” side, directly on the grill or in a pan. Close cover and cook to 155°F (68°C) on a meat thermometer.

Ribs

Direct Heat: Grill over medium to low heat; turn using long-handled tongs and baste often, about 1 1/2 hours.

Indirect Heat: Heat barbecue to about 250°F (130°C), turn off one side and place ribs on the “off-heat” side. If using barbecue sauce start basting after 30 minutes, and continue until ribs are cooked and tender, between 1 1/2 - 2 1/2 hours total. Turn ribs every 20 minutes or so. If using a rub, apply before you start grilling.

MOIST heat – to cook in a covered pan with added liquid or steam. This is an excellent method for leg and shoulder cuts.

Moist heat methods include:

BRAISING/POT ROASTING – to cook in a small amount of liquid in a tightly covered pan, either in the oven or on the stove-top

- For both large cuts (roasts, ribs) and smaller cuts (chops and cubes)

HOW TO DO IT:

- Brown meat first
- Add a small amount of liquid
- Cover and simmer over low heat or in the oven approx. 30–35 min per lb/0.5 kg

CUTS FOR BRAISING/POT ROASTING – cubes, chops, leg and shoulder roasts

STEWING – to cook in a moderate amount of liquid by simmering

HOW TO DO IT:

- Brown meat first
- Add liquid to cover
- Cover pan and simmer over low heat or in the oven approx. 30–35 min per lb/0.5 kg

CUTS FOR STEWING – cubes

stuffing a rack of pork

METHOD 1

Cut meat along the rib bones and open a pocket into the centre of the loin. Stuff, reform and tie.*

Carefully slide a long, sharp knife through the centre of the meat, from one end to the other. Enlarge hole slightly with the knife and with your finger, open the hole you just cut. Do not remove any meat. Force stuffing into the opening first from one end, then from the other.*

*Any remaining stuffing can be baked at 325°F/160°C in a greased casserole, covered with foil, for about one hour.

using a meat thermometer

To cook pork to its juicy and flavourful best, use a meat thermometer to determine doneness. Overcooking pork yields tough and dry results. Insert the probe of the thermometer into the thickest part of the roast, not in fat, stuffing or resting against bone.

Oven-Proof Thermometers are inserted before roasting and left in for the entire cooking process.

Instant-Read Thermometers are not oven-proof. Insert to determine temperature near the end of the cooking time. Take the temperature, then remove thermometer. Return roast to the oven if necessary.

Disposable Pop-Up Indicators are for one-time use only. Insert before roasting; leave in for entire cooking time.

marinades

Marinades are typically a combination of oil, an acidic ingredient (wine, vinegar, orange juice, etc.) and herbs or other flavouring agents. Since pork is a naturally tender meat, marinades are used to add flavour and to help keep meat moist during broiling or grilling. Smaller pieces need at least 30 minutes. Larger cuts (roasts) need at least 8 hours or longer.

- Select a container that is not metal or aluminum (these will react with the acid in the marinade)
- Marinate in the refrigerator
- Never reuse a marinade
- To use a marinade for basting, reserve a small amount before adding the meat OR boil and simmer a marinade with raw meat juices for at least 10 minutes before basting rubs for ribs and more!

A rub is a mixture of dry spices and seasonings spread on the outside surface of the meat. Rub on at least 30 minutes before cooking to allow flavours to penetrate. The longer the rub is left on the meat, the more intense the flavour. Larger pieces of meat, like roasts, should be rubbed and refrigerated several hours or overnight. Rubs work well when the meat is cooked with dry heat (e.g. grilling on the BBQ or roasting in the oven).

Quality Production = Quality Food

Canadian pork is of the highest quality, produced by farmers committed to providing wholesome and safe food for consumers here at home and around the world.

To maintain the high quality of Canadian pork, the pork industry developed and launched the Canadian Quality Assurance® program, a proactive, on-farm program to ensure food safety.

The CQA® program

- Is a practical, on-farm food safety program that provides producers with best production practices and protocols for feed mixing, medication use and detailed record keeping.
- Is based on HACCP (Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points) – an international science-based approach to food safety.
- Requires participating farms to be validated annually by program-trained validators.
- The majority of Canada's meat packing industry requires that animals shipped to their facilities be raised under the CQA® program.
- Is an industry-driven program of the Canadian Pork Council and its provincial affiliates.

Humane and responsible swine production is a priority of Canada's pork industry. Producers enrolled in the Canadian Pork Council's Animal Care Assessment (ACA) program voluntarily submit to an on-farm inspection and audit of their production facilities. ACA builds on the food safety aspects of the CQA® program. It is recognized that many of the practices that promote food safety on farms are also essential to good animal care.
